

Foreign Policy Discussion Tonight At Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill — A panel discussion on "American Foreign Policy" will be at the University tonight at 8 p. m. under the sponsorship of Graham Memorial student union. The discussion will be held in the main lounge of the student union and is open to the public. Members of the panel, who will speak five minutes each, will be Dr. Clarence Philbrook and Dr. Clarence Heet of the school of business administration, Dr. C. H. Pegg of the history department and student attorney general, Dick Murphy. The door will be open for discussion and questions following each talk.

Strong Appeal Is Being Made For Blood Donors

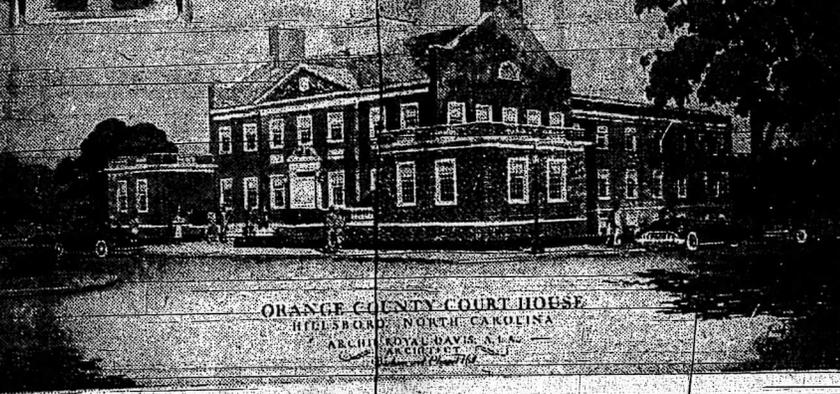

Chapel Hill — The Chapel Hill chapter of the American Red Cross Bloodmobile will collect donations in Chapel Hill on Thursday and Friday, February 1 and 2. John Young, supervisor of the local Naval Volunteer Reserve Research Unit, the organization handling recruitment of donors, said the quota for Chapel Hill is 575 donors. Volunteers may make appointments with Young by calling F-471. Donors are required to be 18 years or older. They should not have a cold or be less than 100 pounds in weight, and in good physical condition. Eggs, meat or fatty foods should not be eaten during the four-hour period immediately before the time set for donation, and if the donor is under 21 years of age and unmarried, consent of parents is necessary. Young emphasized that no volunteers will be accepted on the days the Bloodmobile is here.

Board Announces Health Exams

A trailer from the Industrial Hygiene Division of the State Board of Health will be at the Bellevue Mill on Monday, Jan. 29, at 9:30. All adults are invited to take advantage of the opportunity to have an X-ray, a blood sugar test for diabetes and a test for anemia all free of charge. The trailer will be parked at the water tank on the hill near the Mill.

Hillsboro Churches Will Celebrate World Prayer Day On Feb. 9

Hillsboro — Hillsboro will be among the 15,000 communities in the United States to celebrate the World Day of Prayer on Feb. 9. It was announced today by Mrs. Robert Masterton, chairman of the local committee on arrangements. The local observance will be held at the St. Matthew's Episcopal Church from 1 to 2 p. m. The Merchants' Association cooperation with the prayer day announced this week that stores will be closed during the hour of the service. Members of the committee that have made the arrangements for the program include: Mesdames G. F. Miller, C. S. Hubbard, S. F. Nicks, I. E. Burdette, Gary Floyd, and Clarence Jones.

ORANGE COUNTY COURT HOUSE
HILLSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA
ARCHITECT ARCHIE ROYAL DAVIS, A. I. A.
100 SOUTH GATE STREET, HILLSBORO, N. C.

Orange County citizens, long proud of the historic courthouse which has housed their records and served as their temple of justice for over a century, will view with interest the picture above, an artist's conception of the architect's plans for the new Orange County Courthouse. In releasing the picture which was drawn by Commercial Artist Jack Manley Rose of Summit, N. J., Architect Archie Royal Davis painted an encouraging picture of prospects for construction of the building in the near future. Limitations on new commercial construction recently established by the government have changed the picture on public building considerably and contractors are expected to be more available than was the case six months ago. Davis said plans were all but completed and a call for bids could be issued within the next few weeks if the commissioners give the word. The board is expected to take some action on this at their regular first Monday meeting in February. The new building, as can be seen, will be of colonial design and two stories high. It opens onto a 14-foot promenade terrace of quarry tile and it is hoped to have hand-made Colonial face brick to harmonize with the old courthouse. The two wings on the front are the vaults for the Clerk of Court and Register of Deeds and are so designed for expansion later if necessary. The rear of the building contains the courtroom, reaching through the two stories while off the inside lobby leading from the front door to the courtroom are the offices for the Clerk of Court, the Register of Deeds, Sheriff and Tax Collector. The courtroom will seat 240 persons and Judge chambers, consultation room and jury rooms are immediately behind the courtroom. Space for the County Commissioners, Grand Jury, the Home Demonstration agents and for future expansion is contained on the second floor of the front part of the structure.

Rural Fire Truck Drive Underway, Goal Is $5,000

Hillsboro — The committee named to finance the purchase of a rural fire truck for Orange County set a minimum membership fee for property owner participation this week and reported overwhelmingly favorable response to the cooperative purchase movement launched by a group of representative citizens from the 10-12-mile area surrounding Hillsboro. A goal of $5,000 was set to be raised after a report from the committee on equipment reported on types and costs of needed equipment, including a large water tank and sufficient hose to pick up supplementary water from a pond, creek, or other source. The minimum membership in the association which will receive protection from the equipment was set by the committee at $10 per house for residential property and filling stations, and $16 per farm building including all out-buildings. These fees were set at the lowest possible figure in order that full participation might be obtained from every house owner throughout the area to be served. In a letter to property owners released today, the committee

Church Leaders Plan Open House In New Parsonage

West Hillsboro — The Rev. and Mrs. Frank Petrucelli of the West Hillsboro Church of God will observe Open House next Saturday from 1 to 6 p. m. in the new parsonage of the church just completed under their leadership. The Petrucellis came to Hillsboro on September 12, 1950 and work on the beautiful brick veneer parsonage began on October 30 under the new pastor's supervision. They moved in on December 22 and the Open House in compliance with the expressed added this further appeal: "We realize that this small amount will not raise enough money to buy the best equipment, and we are therefore asking those of you who have larger investment to protect either residential or farm property to pay more in proportion to what you think in right and equitable. The above minimum fees for residential and farm are based on the smallest investment. We are in hopes and expect that those of you who have more than a minimum investment will contribute accordingly, up to $30 per unit. It is going to take this much to get equipment that will do a good job." The life of a fire truck is estimated from 15 to 20 years and the membership fee is for the life of the equipment. Only those who contribute to the purchase of the equipment will be served by it. The fire chief will be provided with a large map on which will be the name and location of every member. The finance committee for the project composed of Don S. Matheson, Reid Roberts, Dr. J. W. Beard, Sim Eiland and A. B. Lloyd has set the period from now until February 1 for accepting memberships in the program. Money may be mailed or brought to Miss Christine Cates, secretary for the County Farm Agent, Hillsboro; the Mayor's office, Hillsboro; or Forrest & Forrest Store, Eiland.

LeGrand Named Orange Chairman Cancer Crusade

Chapel Hill — John LeGrand, attorney of Chapel Hill, has just been appointed campaign chairman for the 1951 Cancer Crusade of the American Cancer Society, according to an announcement by Mrs. Kenneth Brinkhous, Commander of the Orange County Unit and Dr. William Richardson, Chairman of the Executive Committee. The goal of the campaign in which LeGrand will play a vital role is to save lives. Cancer is now the second cause of death in the United States. Many deaths occur because we do not heed the danger signals and see our family physician immediately. Goals of the American Cancer Society are to broaden the attack through research which seeks cancer's cause and cure, through education which today can save thousands of lives if people learn cancer's danger signals and act upon them, and through service which is helpful of the patient himself. LeGrand practiced law in Wilmington until a year ago when he transferred his practice to Chapel Hill. He is a member of the trustees of the University of North Carolina and is a past lieutenant Governor of the Carolina District Kiwanis. Within the next few weeks LeGrand will have some important announcements to make concerning committee appointments for the 1951 campaign which officially begins April 1.

Jaycees Street Project Nears Completion

Chapel Hill — Within the next few weeks Chapel Hill Jaycees will have completed erection and stenciling of names on approximately 180 street markers here. The Jaycees are using a stencil and brush set recently bought by the town government as a part of its permanent equipment. Kenneth Putman, chairman of the Jaycees project, says that townspeople will be given a chance, later on, to help finance the erection of the much needed street markers.

Drunken Drivers Are Promised Jail Terms By Phipps

Hillsboro — While North Carolina's legislature pondered measures to reduce the slaughter of lives on the State's highways, including a bill requiring mandatory jail sentences in cases of drunken driving, Judge L. J. Phipps of Orange County Court this week announced his own decision on more drastic punishment for those convicted of drunken-driving. In the future, said Judge Phipps, convicts for drunken driving in his court will bring automatic jail sentences in addition to the $100 fine now being imposed on first offenders. He indicated the jail terms would not be of long duration—two to five days—but they would be imposed automatically upon all found guilty in the county court. He expressed the hope such sentences would constitute sufficient deterrent to substantial reduction of the crime of drunken driving in this county. He pointed out that those who might expect lighter treatment in appeals to higher courts are doomed to disappointment since a number of Superior Court judges are already following a policy of automatic jail terms in drunken driving cases. In the last term of Superior Court in this county, the single conviction of drunken driving brought the defendant a seven-day jail sentence from Judge William Hatch, the presiding judge.

On Monday's session five offenders were convicted of reckless driving charges and one was sentenced for drunken driving. One defendant, Noel Cole of Chapel Hill, was charged with drunken driving after striking a packed truck on Christmas Eve in Carrboro but pleaded guilty to reckless driving after State's witnesses were unable to make out a clear
